To all the poor Ollie Brown's

Wee Ollie Brown knelt down beside his bed and prayed.

Every night he did the same thing. He prayed for a bike.

Ollie's father had no bike.

He had two brothers and two sisters and none of them had a bike.

The reason was very simple: Ollie's parents could not afford to buy a bike. They could hardly afford to send their children to school.
